

It is important not to further de-regulate the ownership of various media, like newspapers, TV and cable channels and radio channels. The ownership of all the media should not be held by only a few big companies. No single-company ownership of any two kinds of media in a market would be better. Our news is too washed and homogenized now; it can only get worse if ownership is further concentrated.

Susan Quaintance